Horrible as was the Erie holacaust at this place, the awful catastrophe at Alton Junction surpassed it in the number of victims and frightful sufferings of the wounded. It was the worst railroad are about ready to discard the whole of the casualty in the history of the Mississippi valley. WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20, 1898. Republican officials, especially those who have been in office, in the departments for eight years or more, are in a state of mind. They don't like recent indications of a coming change in the Civil Service law. Civil Service Come missioner Roosevelt, in his anxiety in behalf of the republican office-holders, even took the trouble to go over to New York for the purpose of sounding President elect Cleveland on the subject. The immediate causes of this panicky feeling on the part of those who felt their positions on Uncle Sam's pay roll to be safe, were two bills introduced in the House; one. Representative Martin of Indiana, providing that from and after the first of next July, all apintments in the government service should be for a term of four years and that each official so appointed should be eligible for one reapnent, but no more; that all officials-here come the part that has upset the nerves of those who have been feeding at the public trough so long that they thought it belonged to them—who have been in government employ eight years or longer shall be ineligible to reent, and the other providing for a suspension of the Civil Service law, so far as it re lates to appointments and removals, for a period of one year from the beginning of each Presidential term. Representative De Armond, of Missouri, the author of the last named bill, says in a preamble thereto, that no administration can fully and satisfactorily learry its policies into execution if a large portion of the subor dinate officers are hostile to such policies.

The largest appropriation bill—the Sundry Civil—has been completed. It is $15,000,006 less than the estimates submitted to the House. The | and his family are still having a pull at it. We thought we had done the best possible when we sold over 500 pairs of the White Blankets at 75 cts. per pair, but this last lot of Silver Grays "caps the climax." They are larger, CLOTHIER, heavier and better than anything we have previously sold, Customers can't help but buy them. Try and get a pair of them before they are sold. They are "stunners."

The continued cold weather rendered it necessary for us to reorder new stocks of Ladies' and Children's Leggins, Mittens, Ladies' Jersey Rib Underwear -all of which we have in exceptional values.

In fact, we are having a phenomenal trade-selling lots of goods, getting in new things every day-all bought since January 1, and are positively the lowest kind of low prices on them; and customers are delighted to find such good goods at such reasonable prices .-- So it goes. It only demonstrates once more that goods well bought are half sold.

We have no old, shop-worn goods to offer youremember this—and particularly remember that goods at cost, or a discount, are not necessarily cheap. We are constantly on the lookout for drives, and no quantity is too large for us, if the price is right-we can let them out, and in this way, many times, we are enabled to sell you goods, and make a fair profit, too, at less prices than many merchants pay for goods not any better; and after holding on to them till they become shop-worn, they honestly believe they are doing something unusual because they offer them at a discount .- See! We see examples of this every day. Don't take our word for it. Come and see for yourselves. We will be glad ty have the opportunity to make our statements good.

Now this enough, and too much of this. To conclude, of course we always have unseasonable goods, or something we will tell you is not as desirable as it might that will move it Whatever the price is-no matter what it costs—you do not care what it costs us—the FURNITURE, CROCKE important question is what it costs you. "Don't go away from home" to buy goods cheap, till you see what you to to buy goods cheap, till you see what you can find in our stock. We want your trade, and we will do all that is possible to get it and deserve it.

COME AND SEE Us.
